RAC issues driving advice as Storm Jake sweeps in

RAC spokesman Rod Dennis said: “The seesaw weather conditions that have characterised this winter – mild, wet and windy one day, cold and dry the next – look set to continue this week with the arrival of the tenth named storm. With the threat of some wintry showers, especially in the north of the UK, motorists will once again need to take extra care. Our advice is to drive more slowly, check local weather and travel reports regularly, and expect the commute tomorrow morning to take a little longer than usual.”
